Music that Listens to You

The music business hasn't stopped changing for the past generation. But one area has stayed the same for centuries: sheet music. Until now.

Enter Tonara, a startup that has found the solution musicians have been searching for – making sheet music interactive. Tonara developed a revolutionary technology that can change the way you play, rehearse and perform.

Tonara's first product is the groundbreaking Tonara iPad App: it listens to you, follows your place in the score and turns the page for you, at exactly the right time. The app is available to download for free from the iPad app store.

The Tonara App offers a built-in store with hundreds of music scores available for purchase. These scores help the musicians play, rehearse and record their performances, sharing them with friends with one click.

Download the Tonara app now, and you'll never use sheet music in the same way again.
